

Wood Badge . . . What's That?

WOOD BADGE is the ultimate in Scout leadership training focused to teach leadership skills to adults involved in ALL levels of Scouting (Cub Scouts, Scouts BSA, Venturing, and district, council, and professional positions).

Originally developed by Lord Baden-Powell in 1919, the founder of the Boy Scouts, Wood Badge is designed to offer Scouters the opportunity to learn leadership skills in an outdoor environment; it emphasizes leadership, not outdoor skills. It enables you to develop knowledge and understanding of the skills you need to be successful in the development of yourself and youth.

WOOD BADGE consists of two parts:

The first part is a two-weekend training experience where you are taught leadership in a scouting setting; this includes an outdoor experience. During this time, you will be trained in practical leadership skills such as listening, communicating, project planning, problem solving, inclusiveness, valuing diversity, servant leadership, conflict management, leading change, and more. Through this living / working experience, you will have the opportunity to learn and practice these skills with other Scouters in a supportive environment.

You will find these skills to be a very valuable tool in your Scouting, business, and personal life. While you are learning these skills, you will develop a vision for YOUR leadership, and derive, with the help of the staff, goals that will enable you to realize your vision — "your Ticket".

The second part is where you "work your ticket". Over the course of the 18 months following the practical skills training you work at your own pace to accomplish your goals. When you complete "your Ticket" you will join the ranks of many scouters before you and will be honored at a Wood Badge graduation and receive your Troop One neckerchief, leather woggle, Wood Badge beads of recognition, and a certificate.

The History of Wood Badge

In September of 1919, a 61 year-old retired general of the British Army stepped out into the center of a clearing at Gilwell Park near London, England. He raised to his lips the horn of a Greater Kudu, one of the largest of African antelopes. He blew a long, sharp blast. Nineteen men dressed in short pants and knee socks, sleeves rolled up, assembled by patrols for the first Scoutmasters' Training Camp held at Gilwell. The generals name Sir Robert Baden-Powell, the founder of the World Scouting Movement.

When they had finished their training together, Lord Baden-Powell gave each man a simple wooden bead from a necklace he had found in a Zulu chieftain's deserted hut when on campaign in South Africa in 1888. The Scoutmasters' Training Course was a great success and continued to be held year after year. At the end of each course, the wooden beads were used to recognize the completion of training. When the original beads ran out, new ones were whittled to maintain the tradition established by Baden-Powell. Because of these beads, the course came to be known as Wood Badge. It continues to this day in England and around the world as the advanced training course for leaders in Scouting.

FAQs

You Should Attend Wood Badge If . . .

Registration Form

Special Edition

2 Q: I'm new to Scouting. Should I wait a year before I take Wood Badge?

A: We recommend you take the course earlier in your scouting career. The training has been tailored to those who are relatively new to scouting as well as those with more experience. So, take it as soon as you're eligible.

Q: I may need to miss a day due to scheduling conflicts. Is that a problem?

A: You must attend the entire course. You cannot leave early during the course. Every minute of the course is essential to the Wood Badge learning experience.

Q: Do I need special Outdoor Skills?

A: Since overnight tent camping and outdoor cooking is part of the course, some basic camping skills will be helpful. The staff and experienced participants will help those new to the outdoors to have a safe and enjoyable experience.
